

ERISA LITIGATION

The firm's ERISA Litigation practice group comprises experienced benefits practitioners and trial attorneys who have a track record of delivering results to clients. The firm's breadth of employee benefits and litigation expertise provides a unique resource for clients who are faced with disputes relating to the administration of employee benefits and executive compensation arrangements.

Our attorneys understand the unique facets of ERISA litigation and have advised clients regarding a broad range of disputes, from benefit denials and fiduciary claims to highly specialized issues involving multiemployer plans and church and nonprofit organizations. We most often represent plan sponsors, but have also advised plan committees and other fiduciaries regarding the complex issues related to ERISA disputes. Insurance companies have also relied upon our well-regarded capabilities in defending ERISA matters.

In addition to private party litigation, our team has frequently represented clients with respect to Department of Labor and Internal Revenue Service audits and investigations.

The firm's ERISA clients represent all major industries including the fields of energy, manufacturing, aviation, construction and banking and finance.
