

ENVIRONMENTAL REGULATORY PRACTICE

Our environmental regulatory practice assists our clients in every aspect of their business, from day-to-day environmental compliance issues to transactional due diligence and property remediation. We have experience in permitting and compliance issues at both the state and federal level covering a wide range of environmental laws, including solid and hazardous waste, air, water, and endangered species.

We also routinely assist our business and corporate clients with the environmental aspects of business and financial transactions, including due diligence and environmental risk and compliance issues relating to mergers or acquisitions, as well as the purchase, sale and remediation of real property, and the exploration, production, transportation, refining and selling oil, gas and minerals.

ATTORNEYS

Anna McNeil
Alexander Shell

RELATED PRACTICES

Environmental Environmental Aspects of Transactions