

ENERGY

Today's energy issues are dynamic and complex. Conner & Winters features a legal team that understands diverse and complicated energy industry challenges. The extensive experience and resources of our energy team span virtually every significant area of the energy industry — including regulatory matters, preventative planning, commercial, environmental and complex business litigation, alternative dispute resolution, funding and financing, mergers and acquisitions and divestitures. The seasoned experience and creativity of our firm's energy team provides our clients with responsive and personalized solutions to energy issues locally, regionally, nationally, and internationally.

The involvement of the Conner & Winters energy practice team in the business of the energy industry begins with the conceptualization of an energy-related project and ends with the final appellate court's opinion. With this "cradle-to-grave" understanding of the transactional, regulatory, investigative, and litigation aspects affecting our clients' energy business and operations, our advice includes representation before federal and state regulatory agencies, work on energy transactions, litigation, and alternative dispute resolution.
