CONNER & WINTERS TEAM VISITS OIL & GAS OPERATIONS IN SOUTHERN OKLAHOMA

06.26.2023

Last week, a team of Conner & Winters attorneys were invited to a "day in the field" with long-time client Cheyenne Petroleum Company.

OKC attorneys Jared Giddens and Zach Stuart, along with summer associate Emily Fogg, toured multiple locations in Southern Oklahoma where the client was drilling as well as performing fracking, perforation and other well completion operations.

Throughout our firm's 90-year history, we have been a close partner to clients in the oil & gas industry. Energy companies have made significant investments in technology, workforce, infrastructure and innovation in order to generate the energy that powers our country.

We are committed to understanding the ins and outs of how our clients operate, so that we may provide relevant advocacy and effective legal representation for the complex and ever-changing energy industry.

A special thank you to Bill Spurgeon, Terry Allen, James Allbee, and Matt Holmes for hosting our team.
