Erin Hausladen is an attorney in the Corporate Practice Group in the firm's New York office.

Erin's practice focuses on corporate transactional matters across a variety of industries, including domestic and cross-border mergers and acquisitions (buy-side and sell-side), private equity transactions, and venture capital financings. She also advises clients on general corporate formation, governance and compliance matters as well as day-to-day legal and commercial matters. Her areas of expertise include conducting legal due diligence analyses, preparing disclosure schedules and material contracts summaries, and addressing compliance concerns from the start of the due diligence process through post-closing operations.
