Artificial intelligence (“AI”) is here to stay. Leading healthcare organizations are now determining not whether to leverage AI, but how.

We invite you to join Sheppard Mullin and Oliver Wyman for a webinar that will cover how today’s healthcare organizations should consider building AI into their operating models. The discussion will address the tension between exploring the opportunities of AI while building protections for this new landscape. An expert from Babylon, who is on the front lines of AI in healthcare, will join the discussion, allowing attendees to hear firsthand how this innovator is leveraging the potential and addressing the risks of AI.

Specifically the webinar will address AI’s potential in a number of areas:

- Ability to lower costs while improving access
- Business model evolution
- Regulatory evolution
