

Sanctuary housing: Key questions for hotels on front line

Hotels Magazine

03.31.2020

In an article for HOTELS magazine, Hospitality Industry Team Leader Larry Eppley and associate Lauren Mioduszewski discuss how in cities across the country, desperate for beds to house first responders, trained medical personnel, or infected patients that just need a place to self-isolate, are turning to hotels for accommodation. The hotel industry is responding and providing sanctuary in the time of crisis. But these are no ordinary times and these are no ordinary agreements, and the authors walk through some of the key issues for hotel owners and operators to consider before opening their doors as sanctuary housing.

Learn more about these key issues in this blog post.
