

Jackie Ford

RETIRED

Jackie is a retired partner in the Vorys Columbus and Houston offices. Her practice focused on labor and employment issues, privacy and online brand protection. She is the co-founder of the firm's Women's Initiative.

Much of Jackie's practice focused on the retail industry. As part of the Vorys eControl team, Jackie counseled businesses on issues related to eCommerce and online brand protection. In her employment law practice, Jackie helped retailers and other clients address issues of harassment and discrimination, workplace and online privacy, internal investigations, and employment-related administrative charges and litigation. She conducted internal investigations for a wide variety of clients, ranging from Fortune 500 retailers to schools, universities, small businesses and non-profits on issues ranging from harassment claims to data breaches. She also served as outside general counsel to independent K-12 schools. One of Jackie's passions was creating and delivering effective, meaningful training programs designed to prevent workplace problems, foster dialogue and help companies protect their brands. She provided educational programming to clients on a broad range of topics, including brand protection, social media, workplace privacy and mandatory reporting.

Career highlights include:

- Successfully defending employers in numerous cases before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and state discrimination agencies, and in state and federal courts involving all forms of employment discrimination
- Working with employers as a trusted business partner on the full range of employment-related issues
- Representing numerous retailers and manufacturers in online brand-protection matters

Jackie is a frequent writer and commentator on a wide range of legal issues. Notable publications include an article in Law360 concerning best practices in harassment investigations, an op-ed in the Houston Chronicle regarding political conversations in the office, and an article
