Adam is a partner in the firm's Orange County office and a member of the litigation group. His practice focuses on high-stakes litigation in both federal and state courts. Adam has represented international, national, and local clients of all sizes in a wide spectrum of litigation matters including, but not limited to, commercial litigation, complex business disputes, financial services litigation, creditors' rights, corporate shareholder and partnership disputes, labor and employment, and trade secret litigation. His litigation matters have covered a variety of industries, including financial institutions, the automotive industry, construction and real estate.

Career highlights include:

- Obtained a $1.3 million judgment in federal court on behalf of an international industrial gas manufacturing client against a commercial meat processing company in connection with a commercial contract dispute
- On behalf of an industrial manufacturing client, successfully defeated a $4,000,000 breach of contract and fraud action in connection with the lease of commercial food processing equipment and the supply of industrial carbon dioxide
- Obtained a favorable settlement for a client in the construction rental industry after prevailing at trial on a specific performance action in connection with the enforcement of a stock repurchase obligation against the estate of a majority shareholder
- Represented a national retail chain in connection with several ADA violation related actions, including two national class actions regarding ADA website compliance
- On behalf of a bank client, successfully defeated a $35 million claim for violation of The Bank Holding Company Act and claims for fraud on summary judgment arising out of a $1 billion real estate development project
- Obtained a $2.6 million summary judgment against a real estate developer on behalf of a bank client in connection with a breach of a commercial loan obligation

Before he began law school, Adam spent several years working in project management in the construction industry. His experience in this particular industry gives him a valuable understanding of the business issues that can drive litigation, including contractual and commercial disputes, financing and real estate-related issues.

Adam is a member of the California Bar Association and its Business and Real Property sections. He is also a member of the Orange County Bar Association and the Orange County Trial Lawyers Association.

Adam earned his J.D. from Western State University College of Law and his B.A. from St. Lawrence University.
