Sean Byrne, an attorney in the Vorys Columbus office and a member of the tax group, will moderate a webinar on the use of economic development tax incentives. The webinar will focus on opportunities businesses have to improve their IRR when acquiring, growing, consolidating or optimizing operations. Additionally the webinar will detail ways in which businesses can reduce property, income and sales taxes, seek grant funding for equipment and other capital purchases, and reduce infrastructure and utility costs both before and after acquisitions. Panelists will share examples from their experiences to provide the audience information to identify and successfully navigate incentive opportunities.
