Bryan Falk, the co-chair of the firm's finance practice, has been named to the 2022 Crain's Cleveland Business "Notables in Law" list. Falk, who also serves as the vice managing partner of the Vorys Cleveland office, is one of just 37 northeast Ohio attorneys selected for the notable list. He was selected because of his leadership roles in the firm and in the greater Cleveland community.

The article profiling Falk states:

"Bryan has helped to grow our Cleveland office through the recruiting of strategic new hires and mentoring younger attorneys," wrote Anthony O'Malley, managing partner of the Vorys Cleveland office, in nominating Falk for recognition.

Outside of work, Falk sits on the board of directors for United Cerebral Palsy of Greater Cleveland, an agency that serves children and adults with disabilities. He's a member of a slew of organizations, including the Association for Corporate Growth, the Secured Finance Network, the International Council of Shopping Centers and the National Association of Industrial and Office Properties."

In his day-to-day legal work, Falk helps northeast Ohio-based businesses with their corporate, finance and real estate needs. He is the defacto outside general counsel for several privately held, middle market companies headquartered in northeast Ohio. He has broad and deep business counseling experience and a reputation as an effective legal project manager and problem solver.
