Rick Schuster, a partner in the firm's Columbus office, was quoted in the article "Ohio High Court Finds Asbestos Law Retroactive." The article, which was featured in the October 16, 2008 issue of Products Liability Law360, is about an Ohio Supreme Court ruling that allows a 2004 law imposing new limits on asbestos litigation to be applied retroactively.

The article states: "Richard D. Schuster, who argued the case for Anchor Packing Company said the Supreme Court's decision 'will really free up the Ohio courts.' 'It will mean that the courts will be able to focus on individuals who are truly sick,' he said."
