Whitney Gibson, the leader of the firm's internet defamation practice, authored a column, which was titled "Think You're Onto the Apps Your Kids are Into?," for WCPO.com. The article focused on four lesser-known platforms (Ask.fm, Yik Yak, Whisper and Omegle) that are popular with teens and pre-teens and may put users at risk for cyberbullying. In the article, Gibson gives background about each platform and provides some helpful tips for parents.
