Jackie Ford conducted an interview for Texas Lawyer titled "What Employers May Encounter As Employees Return to Work." The article focuses on the potential hurdles employers may encounter as some states begin to ease lockdowns and employees re-enter the workforce.

The article states:

"Since the first quarter of 2020, the COVID-19 pandemic has sent many workers home — either furloughed or to work remotely. Now, as some states and counties begin to ease up on their lockdown orders and some employers decide it's time for their workers to return, they will no doubt have a myriad of problems to address. Texas Lawyer spoke recently with Jackie Ford, a partner practicing employment law in the Houston office of Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease."
